PAINLESS DEATH.

The phenomenon of death is little unerstood. The mystery which shromis death is not greater than that which shronds blith, or thought or volition; yet religion and various other things steadily increasing. The first cannery tendant phenomena. One of the most have conspired to undisterpret its atcommon errors is the idea that pain and dying are inseparable companions. The oth is they very tarely go together. Occasionally, the act of dissolution is a painful one, but this is an exception to ple. A can of salmon, from the time features, gaughing in the throat, and the fish is caught until the can is ready similar ghastly symptoms which mark for the purchaser, passes through a the last moment, are only exhibitions of unconscious automatic action. The built of blocks of stone, the door being lestimony of the dying, so long as they are able to give any testimony, is that their sufferings do not increase as the termination of life approaches, but on the contrary growless. The following incident illustrates the truth of this remark, and so far as a single instance is of value, what has been said of the inches square, which was strongly barpainlessness of dissolution. EARM AND HOUSE. FARMERS' SOCIAL.

"Bank Bons" was the subject of consideration by the Farmers' Social at Mr. Peter Mack'ey's, in Comberland to reship, on Friday - Dr. J. W. C. O Newl in the charring the day and Mr. John Westz s cictary. All preferred this form o' bein to any other, because of mereased e quality and convenience, and the contact of stock. Though costly in building, bank barns are in the end the most economical. The saving in crops by being well housed, the labor saved in after handling and storing, and the feed saved by the comfort of all animals, can only be appre ciated by those whose farms are graced with such roomy, substantial, compact and comfortable structures. Pennsylvania may well be proud of the degree of progress reached in this form of farm comony and utility, and Adams county is entitled to a full share of credit fo the outlays so hierally and yet judi-ciously made. Probably no county in the state can boast of uniformly better farm buildings adapted to all its wants. The growing of beets for stock was also discussed, and commended by all present. In no other way can an acreof good soil be made to yield a more remunerative crop.

WINTER WORK.

An elegant entertainment was enjoy-

LIVE STOCK .- Regular and constant attention during the winter months is an essential to the health and well-doing of farm stock of all kinds, and selfinterest unites with humanity in requiring this to be zealously given them, Regular exercise should be given horses, feed increased proportionately, that the demand for the maintenance of vital heat during cold seasons may be seen. plied as well as the loss of muscular tissues occasioned by their labor. After a day on muddy roads they should be rubbed dry at night, and be well bedded and nothing conduces more to their comfort and healthfulness, too, indeed, than the regular daily use of the currycomb and brush.

Cows in milk need now the most nutritious food, and if a supply of succulent roots, such as sugar beets or mangels, rutabagas, turnips or carrots, they will be at once useful and health-giving, and he is a fortunate man, and deserving commendation as well, who has secured crops enough of the several kinds to vary throughout the season the dry rations of hay and com fodder by abundant messes of these, which will go far towards maintaining the flow of milk and the health of his kine. Be especially careful not to let your cows fall off in flesh and milk early in the season, for great is the difficulty of bringing them up again. Stabling for cows should be moderately warm, but not close -ventilation being seemed without exposing them to the drafts of winter winds. An octo cleanliness and aids in keeping the skin in good condition and health. Do not winter your young cattle and colts at the straw pile and expect them a to regain afterwards what they are los-ing now. Such animals must be kept growing continuously, and to stunt them by morely continuing their existence through the winter is latal to all hopes of making perfect or useful creatures of them. So, likewise, heifers and cows in calf need liberal food and places of shelter in case of storms of Shelters should be provided, too, tor sheep; they should not be close, as, except when it blows, or rains, sheep are better in the open air. Feed a lit. tle grain and bran and salt regularly. Water is as necessary in cold as in warm Hogs ought to be given clean and dry quarters, and pushed vigorously forward so as to be ready for billing. See that they have abance of clean water, and keep them supplied with the rea lime, charred and rotten ocd, all of which seem to act as ton-

Your poultry will pay you for attention to their winter quarters and their diet. The former should be warm and dry, and the latter varied in kind and ample in quantity. Sour milk, table scraps, boiled turnips, scalded bran, are all suitable changes from the usual whole corn rations.

Compost and manuro piles may readily be enlarged at this season, when ma-terials are abundant. The dead leaves, road scrapings, straw, tine litter, the house slops, and similar articles apt to become nuisances if left alone, are all used to advantage in increasing the William E. Myers, Agent. LIABILITY OF ROAD COMMISSIONERS

- The Supreme Court of this State has recently decided a case of interest to Road Commissioners and Supervisors. The case was appealed from the Common Pleas of Schuylkill county. The plaintiff brought suit to recover damages for the death of her husband, the same having been caused, as alleged. through negligence of defendants in not providing a safe read. The evidence was that where the accident occarred the road was barely of sufficient width to allow two vehicles to pass. A wagon was standing on one side of the road and on the other the end of a log protruded, and in attempting to drive between the two the husband of the plaintiff struck the end of the log and was thrown out and killed. In the court below a verdict was rendered against the township, which was appealed to the Supreme Court on the ground that, as the supervisors had let e road out for repairs to the lowest bidder, who had given bonds to fulfil his contract, that fact relieved the supervisors from responsibility; the bond having stimulated to save the township from all accidents. The court, however, decided against this view of the ease and held the township liable on the general principle that if a jury believe road to be unsafe for travel, let the Hardware Business, WHA SELL HIS ENcause be what it may, it is evidence of TIRE STOCK AT PAIVATESALE. Taues Along THE ROAD.-Plant trees along the roads and lanes, and let them be trees which will bear fruit and for practical uses when converted into boards. The planting of black walnut, emiled altade, hickory and oak, and all bearing trees whose fruit is raduable, is desirable, and M carefully cultivated and tunined in their youth, can be rendered very valuable. Finit trees of all kinds, particularly the apple and the cherry, when selected with care as to size and shape, can also be fondered profitable as bearing trees, and when they have reached their full growth, and have fulfilled their purposes in crops of fruit, can be used for wood. A farm with its lanes and shearms of water planted with trees, would not fail to chief general admiration, and be greatly in the factors of the control of

THE PARTING HOUR.

The following exquisite poem, says the Port-Lad "Terming Commercial," was written by the late Edward Pollock, the gifted California poet, on the 6th of January, 1855, and has never boos mobilshed. It was clean by the poet to a follod who was about to depart on a steamer for Oregon, Dates because 1855. Pollock saying, "Take this; you may, perhaps
